CLE and Ski!

The Ski Train began in 1940 and is beginning its 66th year of trips to Winter Park. In a little over two hours, the 56-mile route heads west out of Denver along South Boulder Creek, past Pinecliffe and then Rollinsville. During the 4,000-foot ascent, see alpine wilderness and vistas you won't see anywhere else. Pass through 28 tunnels before reaching the Moffat Tunnel, the highest railroad tunnel in the United States, and passes under the Continental Divide. The train stops less than 100 yards from the base of the lift. Then get ready for a day of great fun whether it's skiing, snowshoeing, cross-country skiing, or snowmobiling.

$139 includes deluxe private club-car transportation, course materials, continental breakfast, snacks and soft drinks.

To register, visit www.cle.com/ski.

Catharyn A. Baird has been with Regis University and has been a member of the Colorado bar for 30 years. She presently teaches law, ethics and public policy, and has been the Director of the Regis University Division of Business since 2001. She has published extensively, consults in the area of ethics and spirituality in the workplace, and is a highly regarded speaker. Her book Everyday Ethics: Making Hard Choices in a Complex World has just been released. She is also the Founder/CEO of EthicsGame.com, which has developed an on-line ethics simulation that can be used for education, training, or individual professional development.

Richard S. Levick and his firm has manage media strategies for many of the world's highest-profile matters, from the Catholic Church scandals and Guantanamo Bay, to the Rosie O'Donnell's magazine trial and the most significant civil litigation arising out of the Iraq war. The firm has managed the media in nearly 3,000 legal matters and crises, representing half of the 100 largest law firms in America and one-third of the 100 largest in the world. He and his firm have published acclaimed books, including Stop the Presses: The Litigation PR Desk Reference, Inside/Outside: How Businesses Buy Legal Services, and 365 Marketing Meditations. His articles appear regularly in publications throughout the world. He speaks globally on high stakes communications. Recent engagements have included keynote addresses in China, Hong Kong, Australia, India and New Zealand as well as hundreds of speeches throughout the U.S. He is a frequent commentator on radio and television on high-profile cases. PR News honored him as the Public Relations Professional of the Year for U.S. Agencies in 2002.

Stephen G. Masciocchi is a partner with his firm. He has 15 years of complex civil litigation experience and specializes in appellate advocacy. His experience comprises diverse practice areas, including business torts, civil rights and constitutional law, insurance coverage, personal injury, product liability, trade secrets, and the UCC. He is chair of his firm's Ethics and Conflicts Committee and a member of the Colorado Bar Association Ethics Committee. He has written and lectured on a wide variety of ethics issues, including ethics and technology, confidentiality, ethical marketing, conflicts of interest and appellate ethics.

Raymond P. Micklewright is presently a Senior Legal and Policy Analyst with the Space Operations Division of Analytic Services, Inc. He was formerly Chair of the Colorado Bar Association's Ethics Committee, and has been a member since 1986. He is also the Executive Director of the Faculty of Federal Advocates Pro Bono Mentoring Program. He practices civil and commercial litigation, criminal defense work and construction law. He was previously with the law firm of Wolf & Slatkin.

Lindsay Moore is the founder and CEO of her management consultation firm, which is located in Boulder, Colorado. She specializes in strategy, planning, knowledge management, business ethics, regulatory compliance, and the management of intellectual capital assets, such as brands and intellectual property. She is also a Professor of Law at George Washington University Law School, where she teaches legal strategy and intellectual asset management. She was one of the original founders, and later the General Manager, of Strategy and Innovation, at Celestial Seasonings, Inc. There she managed strategic planning, developed a brand worth variously from $400 million to $800 million dollars, and was responsible for corporate legal affairs, intellectual property, ethics, and corporate values.

John M. Palmeri specializes in complex civil litigation and has appeared in cases throughout the Rocky Mountain region. He routinely handles commercial litigation matters, and has tried significant cases to verdict in federal and state courts, securing several multi-million dollar settlements and judgments for his clients. He has extensive experience in the defense of professional malpractice lawsuits and has tried cases defending lawyers, accountants and physicians. In addition to his extensive trial practice, he has argued several leading cases in federal and state appellate courts. He is a published author and frequent lecturer. He has published articles in the law reviews of the University of Denver and the University of Wyoming and is a contributing author to The Colorado Lawyer.

Traci Van Pelt began her practice as a civil trial lawyer with the San Francisco law firm of Bronson, Bronson & McKinnon. In 1996, she joined the Denver firm of Long & Jaudon, and became a founding shareholder of her firm in 2001. She handles a variety of complex civil cases. The current focus of her practice is the defense of legal and medical professionals in malpractice/professional liability cases. She has extensive courtroom experience and has represented some of Colorado's top lawyers and law firms. She also handles a broad spectrum of matters for a number of Colorado hospitals, as well as complex commercial litigation matters, and the defense of class action cases against professionals.
