Program Chair Beat U. Steiner is a leading expert in real estate and banking matters. He has broad experience in the acquisition, disposition and financing of real estate, and has been actively involved in the purchase, sale, financing and development of numerous resort properties in Colorado, California, Vermont and New Zealand.	Polly B. Jessen has a practice that emphasizes regulatory compliance and transactional counseling, which involves environmental, land use and municipal law. Her experience includes a wide range of contaminated property redevelopment issues, including environmental due diligence, negotiating environmental provisions of purchase and sale agreements and environmental insurance policies, oil and gas issues, and professional service and construction contracting.	Peter Pollock has been in his current position since 1999. Over the past 24 years, he has worked with the City of Boulder as both a current and long-range planner. During his tenure with the city, he has worked on growth management issues, including urban growth boundaries, development impact fees, and Boulder's residential and nonresidential allocation systems, as well as a host of historic preservation, environmental planning, and community development projects.
John C. Durham coordinates land development teams and land development projects for his company. He prepares development plan submittals and processes them through the local government review and approval steps, including post-submittal follow-up, issue resolution and public hearings.	Malcolm M. Murray specializes in urban renewal, land use matters and eminent domain litigation for both public and private entities. He currently advises the Denver Urban Renewal Authority, the Lakewood Reinvestment Authority, the Westminster Economic Development Authority, the Steamboat Springs Redevelopment Authority, and the Vail Reinvestment Authority on urban renewal matters. He has been an adjunct professor at the University of Colorado at Denver's School of Architecture and Planning.	Thomas J. Ragonetti focuses on land use, government regulation, public-private transactions and related matters. He is a recognized specialist in the legal fields of land use planning and regulation, public finance for private development, annexation, urban development, zoning and historic preservation. For over 25 years, he has been immersed both professionally and personally in Colorado and Denver development issues.
Robert Hoban specializes in the areas of land use, eminent domain, public policy, governmental relations and real estate litigation. He represents both private and governmental entities, landowners, business owners, developers, tenants, and other entities in all aspects of eminent domain and land use proceedings. In addition, he has worked closely with numerous governmental officials in drafting legislation and providing related legal and policy advice.	William R. Patterson has been active in real estate finance in the Denver area for 20 years. He currently manages U.S. Bank's $1.1 billion mission capital investment in Redwood Capital. Redwood is a joint venture specializing in real estate structured capital. He is also responsible for managing a few select client relationships in the Denver market.	Kenneth K. Skogg is a managing member of his firm, where he practices in the areas of general commercial litigation with an emphasis on real estate litigation and eminent domain litigation. He has lectured on eminent domain and other real estate litigation issues to various professionals. Mr. Skogg is a member of the Denver, Colorado and American Bar Associations.
Bruce A. James practices real estate development and finance, and serves as the Managing Partner/CEO of his firm. He has been on the development or finance side of such notable projects such as the Wellington E. Webb Building, Belmar, the Museum Residences, the Denver Newspaper Agency headquarters building, Larkridge and Southlands.	Rick Pederson has counseled scores of companies in the creation and implementation of corporate property strategy. He has led property planning and market analysis projects throughout North America, South America, Europe and Asia for several multinational companies. He has been quoted in dozens of newspapers and periodicals worldwide and has appeared on Nightly Business Report.	John R. Wilson advises clients on corporate and individual tax matters, mergers and acquisitions, international business transactions, and IRS audits and appeals. He is listed in The Best Lawyers in America and has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Tax Counsel.
