... and many of Florida's top wetlands practitioners!

Dear Colleague:

This has been an eventful year for wetlands. The 2005 hurricane season brought national attention to wetlands and the role they might play in mitigating hurricane damage, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Army Corps of Engineers proposed new and significant mitigation rules, and a divided Supreme Court fell short of a definitive decision in Rapanos, a much-anticipated Michigan wetlands case.

Our 12th Annual Florida Wetlands Conference could not come at a better time. We are excited about the program we are delivering this year. We have an outstanding schedule and an even better faculty to supply you with the tools and information you need to take your practice to the next level. Our Conference will provide Florida's top wetlands professionals with a forum for educational exchange about this dynamic field, the year's events and what the future might hold—we hope you will join the conversation.

Whether you are new to the wetlands field or a veteran looking for more information about the recent Supreme Court cases or the proposed mitigation rules, you will find what you are looking for in this well-established Conference.

We look forward to meeting you.

Florida Wetlands

meet your faculty

Program Co-Chairs

Eric T. Olsen is involved in the development of regulations governing environmental resource permitting, mitigation banking, wetland delineation and consumptive use. He represents clients before the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, water management districts and local governments.

Ann M. Redmond is an authority on wetland regulation, with special expertise in watershed and ecosystem scale permitting, cumulative impact assessments, development of functional assessment methods, all aspects of wetland mitigation and wetland policy. She was with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection for 12 years.

William B. Ainslie has worked in Region IV since 1986 and in the wetlands program since 1988. In the Wetlands Section, he has worked on regulatory issues, advanced identifications, grants and wetland functional assessment.

Mary Jane Angelo teaches and researches topics including environmental law, water law, administrative law and law & science. She was previously an attorney for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Senior Assistant General Counsel for St. Johns River Water Management District.

Richard W. Cantrell oversees the Bureau of Mine Reclamation and the Office of Submerged Lands and Environmental Resource Permitting, including responsibility for ERP and WRP programs, wetland delineation and coordination with water management districts and local governments.

Eric Hickman and his department are responsible for ensuring state-wide coordination and consistency in the delineation of surface waters and wetlands. As part of this, he enables departments, districts and local governments to implement methodology.

H. Clark Hull, Jr., is responsible for rule writing, policy development, litigation support and technical assistance to permit evaluators. He was part of the team that developed the Uniform Mitigation Assessment Method.

Neal McAliley is an environmental lawyer specializing in federal environmental issues, including NEPA, the Endangered Species Act, the Clean Water Act, the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act and the criminal enforcement of federal environmental laws.

Susan Martin has been with the South Florida Water Management District for almost 12 years and specializes in legal issues associated with environmental permitting.

Angela R. Morrison practices environmental law, including wetlands, environmental resource permits, coastal regulation and air quality. She represents clients on environmental issues before the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, water management districts and local governments.

George I. Platt is an AV-rated attorney and concentrates on regulatory law, land use and government relations. He is principal and co-founder of Florida Wetlandsbank and is regarded as one of the pioneers of the mitigation banking industry. He is Vice President of the National Mitigation Bankers Association and is currently working on 12 mitigation bank projects in the southeastern United States.

Thomas W. Reese practices public interest environmental and land use law on behalf of citizens and national, state and local environmental organizations. He is admitted to practice in Florida, the Supreme Court of the United States, the United States Courts of Appeals of the Fifth, Eleventh and District of Columbia Circuits, and the United States District Court, Middle District of Florida.

Charles A. Schnepel has over 33 years of experience in the South Florida regulatory arena. As part of the Regulatory Corporate Board, he participates in reviews and determinations that have affected and will continue to affect the regulatory process in Florida, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Roger D. Schwenke has focused on environmental, land use and real estate law for over 35 years. He currently serves as the ABA's Advisor to the Uniform Law Commission's Uniform Environmental Covenants Act, is a former Chair of the Environmental and Land Use Law Section of the Florida Bar, and is a liaison from the ABA Real Property Section to the ABA Standing Committee on Environmental Law.

Victoria K. Tauxe focuses on wetland mitigation bank permitting. She does the permitting and compliance on the mitigation banks permitted by the Department of Environmental Protection and maintains basic statistics on all of Florida's banks.

Cynthia J. Wood has worked for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in the Jacksonville District for the past two years. Her experience includes 27 years in the Corps Regulatory Program in three other Districts (Galveston, Wilmington and Norfolk). She is licensed to practice law in Virginia, Florida and the Washington, DC, Court of Appeals.
